

Designer Cabinet Refinishing, LLC. Announced Today Year Three For Medium/Dark Earthtone Trends In Kitchen Cabinets, Cabinet Refinishing, Cabinet Refacing, Facing And New Cabinets

Winding down from a two year demand for cabinet refinishing fueled by a sellers market of flipping houses at a whooping 47 percent increased cost to Arizona home buyers in 2005.

For Immediate Release

PHOENIX/EWORLDWIRE/Sep. 27, 2006 --- As homeowners revitalized their kitchens to get maximum return during the selling bubble of the last two years, Designer Cabinet Refinishing, Inc. provided investors cost-effective solutions to easily add to the bottom line value asking price. By converting worn and dated kitchen cabinets into rejuvenated, renewed hearts of the home via a product line with a selection of 48 stock finishes and coatings - at an average cabinet refinishing job costing between $2,500 to $4,500 - refinishing became an affordable, viable option.

The cabinet refinishing process offered by Designer Cabinet Refinishing uses a multi-step approach to create its popular Acrylic Finish - homeowners enjoy a five-day no/mess hand-brushed application in the home while their cabinet doors are prepared at the company's Phoenix facility. New accessories like designer molding, hidden hinges and glass accent doors add an increased level of sophistication to the kitchen's look that help sellers create buzz about - and desire for - their offerings.

Says designer Michael Rose, "Everyone associates the kitchen with warmth - appealing surroundings foster that feeling, and an old kitchen made new provides an even stronger attraction to potential buyers."

From the over 2,500 homes the company has completed, 80 percent of kitchens feature stainless steel appliances, dark granite countertops and medium tone tile flooring. The ultimate fix for homeowners trying to avoid costly alternatives, the company says the buzz in the biz is earthtone kitchens.

To accomodate today's busy owners, design consultants are available for complimentary in-home estimates and for evening and Saturday appointments. Appointments may be scheduled by calling Monday through Friday between 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. More information is available at www.designercabinetrefinishing.com.
