Signature Devices, Inc. (Pink Sheets: SDVI; <http://www.signaturedevices.com>), a leading developer and publisher of advanced 3-D interactive games and simulation technology, has been awarded contracts.

For Immediate Release

REDWOOD CITY, Calif./EWORLDWIRE/Jan. 22, 2007 --- "We are delighted that GLOBAL VR has again selected us to develop interactive coin-operated video games for distribution on a worldwide scale," stated Kenneth Hurley, CEO of Signature Devices, Inc. "This is indicative of the quality of games we produce for category leading companies in and their satisfaction with our company and our staff of talented programmers, designers and game creators."

"We are taking advantage of the ever increasing video game market," said Hurley. "According to market research firm NPD Group, U.S. sales of software, hardware and accessories were up 19 percent to $12.5 billion in 2006. Signature Devices is a premier developer and receives royalties from the video games we develop."

Veteran game programmer Hurley and several other industry veterans founded Redwood City, Calif.-based Signature Devices, Inc. in 2002. Signature Devices, Inc. has a long list of noteworthy PC and Xbox game credits including "SAMURAI SHODOWN V" for Xbox, "King of Fighters '94 Reboot" for Xbox, "Farcry" and "Medal of Honor - Pacific Assault" and many others. In addition, its Graffiti Entertainment subsidiary publishes video games from independent developers. This includes "Crazy Frog Racer" for the PC, "Chain of Command: Eastern Front" for the PC, "Red Jets" for the PC, "Back To Stone" for the Nintendo Game Boy(R) Advance, and "Mazes of Fate" for the Nintendo Game Boy(R) Advance.
