For Immediate Release

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla./EWorldWire/Aug. 1, 2008 --- BagmastersUSA Marketing Director John Kopinski today announced that BagmastersUSA and Wolfe Packaging, signed an agreement that will allow BagmastersUSA to sell and distribute the complete product line of Wolfe Packaging, making one-stop shop for packaging buyers.

Since BagmastersUSA began making plastic bags in 1977, the company has become a nationwide manufacturer of all types of plastic bags. This agreement will add corrugated boxes, packaging tape, padded mailers, stretch and shrink film, Styrofoam peanuts and bubble wrap to the product offering of BagmastersUSA.

Kopinski stated, "We have been a leader in providing pre-opened bags-on-a-roll for quite a few years, now our customers can phone, fax, email or order on line, all of their packaging needs." Pre-Opened bags-on-a-roll are used by many companies as part of a labor saving system. The bag is manufactured connected end to end much like the produce bags in a grocery store. The difference is that one side of the bag has the perforations already separated at the factory so that they can be dispensed by an automatic bagging machine that blows a puff of air into the bag so that the packer just has to drop a product into the bag and hit the seal switch. It is estimated that this type of system is more than twice as fast as loading by hand.

BagmastersUSA has already seen a savings realized by its customers as they only need to get one shipment instead of two. "Rising gas and transportation costs will make this more attractive as prices rise even higher," remarked Kopinski. As part of this new marketing program, the Web site of BagmastersUSA at '<http://www.bagmastersusa.com>' has been updated to include online ordering. BagmastersUSA continues to manufacture all types of plastic bags and ship them to customers in nearly every state of the union.
