

Skelta BPM and Computer Support Services Inc. Announce Strategic Alliance

Global Partnership enhances U.S. Business Opportunities

For Immediate Release

LEWISBURG, Pa./EWORLDWIRE/Dec. 1, 2009 --- Skelta BPM, a leader in the business process management (BPM) space, announced a strategic partnership with Computer Support Services Inc. (CSSI) in a move to strengthen their partner network in the North American region. CSSI is a leading provider of business solutions and technology for over 36 years, assisting over a thousand companies and organizations throughout the United States and Canada.

Speaking on the association, Paritosh Shah, executive vice president, Strategic Partnerships, Skelta Software said, "This strategic technology partnership with CSSI is a solid example of Skelta's commitment of enabling process driven organizations worldwide. Skelta BPM enables human oriented process management across a wide range of industries because of its agility, scalability and ease of deployment. Skelta BPM is the preferred choice of platform by OEMs across the globe."

Jeff Creighton, vice president of operations for CSSI, is excited about the Skelta BMP partnership. "CSSI is proud to be chosen as Skelta BPM's North American Business Partner. This partnership allows CSSI to address the growing need for BPM software in the U.S. and enhances CSSI's ability to meet the needs of its expanding customer base. After researching the market place for more than a year, CSSI feels that Skelta is the leading product in terms of agility, scalability, robustness and ease of deployment. The software partnership will allow CSSI to provide solutions to a nationwide market."
