MOUNT PLEASANT, S.C./EWORLDWIRE/Nov. 5, 2008 --- Charles McCracken, president/CEO of the new mega-site '<http://www.McBidz.com>' and '<http://www.Mobilecharging.com>', an early stage national Electric Vehicle (EV) charging company, discusses developments on his blog at '<http://www.charlesfmccracken.com>'.

McBidz which is being developed as the one stop destination on the Internet and intends to bring all the popular scripts to one place for their members - affectionately called, "McBidzers," is in the final stages of preparing to launch to the public. Initially launched several years ago as an online auction community, it went down for programming nearly a year ago and has now expanded to include all the popular activities on the internet such as Video sharing "McVidz," Business, Jobs, Wanted, Auctions, Classifieds, Autos, Real Estate, Greeting Cards, Dating, Classmates, Photo Album, and social network "McBidzers".

Mobile Charging is a new company which has been formed in preparation to build the United States charging infrastructure for Electric Vehicles (EV) which are currently in production and planned to be released in the U.S. such as the popular Chrysler line due out next year. Mobile Charging has an aggressive approach to build this charging infrastructure in the United States within a short period of time to accommodate the future of electrical car ownership in America by franchising their service nationwide.

In his blog, '<http://www.charlesfmccracken.com>', which has been ongoing for several months now, the President/CEO of McBidz gives a continuing account of how the process is coming along with insight to these new companies which could have a large effect on consumers in the United States market.
